

PUBLIC GOVER NANCE

PUBLIC GOVERNANCE

Edited by Stanisław Mazur

Translated from Polish by Rafał Śmietana
Original edition: Współzarządzanie publiczne,
Wydawnictwo Naukowe Scholar 2015

Reviewers: Prof. Jarosław Górniak
Prof. Jerzy Wilkin

Proofread by Katarzyna Bartoszyńska

Cover design by Katarzyna Juras

Copyright © 2015 by Scholar Publishing House, Warsaw

This publication is part of the project “The Consolidation of Public Governance Theories in Public Policy Research. A Critical Perspective”, conducted by the Cracow University of Economics, Faculty of Economics and International Relations and was funded by the National Science Centre allocated on the basis of the decision number DEC-2012/07/B/HS4/00444

ISBN 978-83-7383-772-0

Scholar Publishing House Ltd.
ul. Wiśłana 8
00-317 Warszawa
info@scholar.com.pl
www.scholar.com.pl

Contents

FOREWORD	11
----------------	----

PART ONE THEORETICAL FOUNDATIONS OF GOVERNANCE

CHAPTER 1. GOVERNANCE AND ITS CONCEPTUAL FOUNDATIONS	17
Jerzy Hausner
1.1. The nature of governance	17
1.2. Dysfunctions and dilemmas of the social system	19
1.3. The principles of governance	21
1.4. Subjectivity	26
1.5. Wicked problems	28
1.6. Disequilibrium	32
1.7. Summary	35
Bibliography	36
CHAPTER 2. GOVERNANCE IN PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION	37
Stanisław Mazur
Introduction	37
2.1. The interdisciplinary nature of research on public administration	37
2.2. The place of governance in the study of public administration	38
2.3. The impact of governance theory on public administration research	39
2.3.1. Network governance theories	40
2.3.2. New institutionalism theories	44
2.3.3. Delegation theories	48
2.3.4. Theories of bounded rationality	51
2.3.5. Theories of interpretation	54
2.4. Conclusions	57
Bibliography	58

CHAPTER 3. GOVERNANCE VS NEW INSTITUTIONAL ECONOMICS	63
Michał Możdżeń
Introduction	63
3.1. New Institutional Economics	64
3.1.1. Outline of the mainstream approach – a creative continuation	64
3.1.2. The issue of institutional evolution	65
3.1.3. Institutions: a definition and an integrative perspective	66
3.2. The contribution of New Institutional Economics to the development of governance	68
3.2.1. Transaction cost economics (Williamson)	68
3.2.2. Principal-agent theory	73
3.2.3. Governance by rules (North)	76
3.2.4. Common-pool resources	79
3.3. The limited capacity of New Institutional Economics to explain governance	83
3.4. Conclusions	85
Bibliography	86
CHAPTER 4. A CRITIQUE OF THE CONCEPTUAL FOUNDATIONS OF GOVERNANCE	89
Marcin Zawicki
Introduction	89
4.1. The sources and nature of critiques of governance	89
4.2. Theoretical-normative critiques of governance	91
4.3. Critiques of pragmatic governance	94
4.4. Critiques of governance	99
4.5. Conclusions	101
Bibliography	103

PART TWO GOVERNANCE AND PUBLIC POLICY

CHAPTER 5. PUBLIC GOVERNANCE VS THE NEW INTERNATIONAL DIVISION OF LABOUR IN THE CONTEXT OF GLOBALIZATION	109
Tomasz Geodecki
Introduction	109
5.1. From networks to the world of multilevel governance	110
5.1.1. Diverse approaches to governance	110
5.1.2. Governance as networks	111
5.1.3. Governance as global governance	112
5.1.4. Governance as neo-liberal government reform	114

5.2. The competitiveness of the economy and national policies in the logic of global network governance	116
5.2.1. Neo-liberal roots of contemporary international economic relations	116
5.2.2. Global free-market advocates	118
5.2.3. The growing interdependence of national economies in the context of the liberalization of goods and capital movement	121
5.2.4. Different opinions concerning the growing interdependence of national economies	126
5.3. Governance without government?	132
5.3.1. Global governance as a response to the disappearance of the state and the need for international coordination	132
5.3.2. New transnational centres of power or a concert of powers?	133
5.4. The role of the state in the era of globalization	135
Conclusions	141
Bibliography	141

CHAPTER 6. PUBLIC GOVERNANCE VS LABOUR MARKET

POLICY	146
Maciej Frączek
Introduction	146
6.1. Governance theories and attributes important for labour market policy	147
6.1.1. Reflexive self-organization	149
6.1.2. Horizontal networks	150
6.1.3. Negotiating consensus	152
6.1.4. Evidence-based labour market policy	153
6.1.5. Multi-level governance and the open method of coordination	154
6.1.6. Social dialogue and industrial relations	156
6.1.7. Labour market pacts	157
6.1.8. Good governance in labour market policy	158
6.2. The importance of reflexive self-organization, horizontal networks, and negotiating consensus in labour market policy in Poland	160
6.2.1. Labour market councils in Poland	161
6.2.2. The National Action Plan for Employment (NAPE)	162
6.2.3. Regional Action Plans for Employment	163
6.2.4. The Trilateral Commission	164
6.3. Problems with the implementation of labour market policy under the governance model	165
Conclusions	166
Bibliography	168

CHAPTER 7. GOVERNANCE VS NETWORK GOVERNANCE IN LOCAL GOVERNMENT	171
Michał Żabiński
Introduction	171
7.1. Network governance in local government	171
7.2. Network governance mechanisms and instruments in Poland's local governments	178
7.3. Advantages and limitations of network governance	185
Conclusions	189
Bibliography	191
 CHAPTER 8. THE IMPORTANCE OF SOCIAL CAPITAL IN THE PROCESS OF PUBLIC GOVERNANCE	194
Jakub Głowacki
Introduction	194
8.1. Key theories of social capital	194
8.2. The origins of social capital	197
8.3. How to measure social capital?	198
8.4. The correlation between social capital and public governance	204
8.5. The impact of social capital on the efficiency and effectiveness of public governance instruments	206
Conclusions	210
Bibliography	210
 CHAPTER 9. GOVERNANCE AND INNOVATION POLICY	212
Piotr Kopyciński
Introduction	212
9.1. Multi-level governance	212
9.2. Theories of innovation policy	216
9.2.1. The evolution of the perception of innovation	217
9.2.2. The evolution of the understanding of innovation policy	219
9.2.3. The process approach to innovation and innovation models	220
9.2.4. Innovation systems	222
9.2.5 The importance of cooperation in the implementation of innovation	227
9.3. Relationships between governance and innovation policy	229
9.3.1. The importance of institutions and their interactions	230
9.3.2. The importance of networking	231
9.3.3. The significance of territory	231
9.3.4. Multi- and interdisciplinarity	231
9.3.5. Trust	232
9.3.6. Intermediate forms of organization	232

9.4. The impact of the quality of governance on innovation policies in Poland	234
Conclusions	236
Bibliography	238
CHAPTER 10. GOVERNANCE VS LEGAL STANDARDS	242
Maciej Gnela
Introduction	242
10.1. Relationships between governance and the legal order	243
10.2. Legal instruments for the implementation of governance mechanisms in public policies	245
10.2.1. Generally binding legislation	246
10.2.2. Departmental regulations	247
10.2.3. Regulations governing obligations	247
10.2.4. Non-binding quasi-legal relations (soft law)	248
10.3. Possibilities and limitations of the implementation of governance mechanisms in public policies: Public procurement	248
10.3.1. Generally applicable provisions of the Public Procurement Law	250
10.3.2. Recommendations issued by central state bodies	252
10.3.3. The contents of public procurement contracts	253
10.3.4. Catalogues of best practices	254
Conclusions	254
Bibliography	256
CHAPTER 11. GOVERNANCE VS MULTI-LEVEL GOVERNANCE	258
Robert Chrabąszcz
Introduction	258
11.1. Origins of multi-level governance	259
11.2. Attributes of multi-level governance	260
11.2.1. The development of theoretical concepts of multi-level governance	260
11.2.2. Multi-level governance vs Europeanization and regionalization	264
11.2.3. Multi-level governance vs public policies	266
11.2.4. The evolution and prospects of the concept of multi-level governance	267
11.3. Critiques of the concept of multi-level governance	268
11.4. Conclusions	270
Bibliography	273

CHAPTER 12. GOVERNANCE IN PUBLIC SERVICES	275
Dawid Sześciło
Introduction	275
12.1. Public services – the concept, its types, and responsibility for their provision	275
12.2. The destatization of public services – towards co-production	278
12.3. Co-production as participation in the direct provision of public services	282
12.3.1. The support NGOs provide for public tasks	283
12.3.2. Local initiatives	285
12.3.3. Public-private partnerships	285
12.3.4. Boards of trustees in public hospitals	286
12.3.5. Parents' councils and school boards in educational institutions	287
12.3.6. Local Action Groups	289
12.4. Conclusions	289
Bibliography	290
 CLOSING REMARKS. PUBLIC GOVERNANCE: THEORETICAL CHALLENGES AND PRACTICAL APPLICATIONS	293
Stanisław Mazur
1. Introduction	293
2. Theoretical challenges	293
Conceptual identity	294
Accountability	295
Hybridization	296
Networking	296
Multi-level governance	297
3. Practical applications	298
The dominance of public governance	298
The marginalisation of public governance	298
Cohabitation	299
Bibliography	299
 AUTHORS' AFFILIATIONS.....	301
 INDEX OF NAMES	302